KOLKHORST ANNOUNCES OVER $792,000 CASH ON HAND IN JULY REPORT

Mentions her consideration of a Senate District 18 campaign

Wednesday, the Lois Kolkhorst campaign reported $792,000 cash on hand on her July 15th campaign finance report showing where elected officials and candidates for state offices stand after the first half of the year. This total is an increase of over $250,000 from the last report filed by the campaign in January of 2014.

Not surprising to most was the mention from Representative Kolkhorst that she is heavily considering a run for State Senate and, with this recent report, she is the clear financial front runner with none of her potential opponents coming close to the numbers she posted.

Upon his election as our state's next comptroller Glenn Hegar is set to resign his senate seat triggering a special election which the Governor will direct. The election is expected to be sometime in mid December, prior to the swearing in of the new Texas Senators.

"We've had some amazing accomplishments for the conservative values we hold in Texas, but we can do better. We're excited about all the support we have received from conservatives across House District 13, Senate District 18 and all across Texas. We continue to be encouraged to consider running for the Texas Senate, and have assured all of our supporters that we will be making an announcement soon. In the meantime we will continue reaching out to Texans with our message of how we can make our state stronger. Texans are ready for principled conservative leaders at every level of state government, and the more I talk to voters, the more excited I am about where our state is headed," commented Kolkhorst.
